Carmichael's New President Reaffirms Commitment to CTPAT Compliance and Integrity

In the years since the events of September 11, 2001, the global trade community has taken significant steps to strengthen the security of international supply chains. Programs such as the Customs-Trade Partnership Against Terrorism (C-TPAT), developed by the U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) and supported by the World Customs Organization (WCO), play a critical role in this effort.

These voluntary initiatives require participants to adhere to strict security guidelines designed to safeguard shipments against the introduction of unauthorized goods or threats such as weapons of mass destruction. They also serve to enhance the safety of supply chain operations and the people who support them.

At Carmichael International Service, we are proud to have been a validated C-TPAT member since 2003. We were most recently revalidated in 2025, and we remain fully committed to maintaining the high standards set by CBP and the WCO. Supply chain security is not just a regulatory requirement; it is a core part of our mission to build and manage reliable, compliant global logistics solutions for our customers.

We thank you for your partnership and look forward to continuing to support your business with integrity, vigilance, and dedication to global supply chain security.

Sincerely,
Carmichael International Service

Asim Faiz
President
